

Providence Classical School

Upper School Student Questionnaire

Providence Classical School requires that all applicants submit answers to the following questions so that we may become more familiar with you and your work. Please honestly answer each question on your own. All answers will be kept confidential.

Tell us about yourself and your interests and activities, including classes, music, drama, art, athletics, church groups, etc. Be specific. _____

What does it mean to you to be a Christian? _____

Tell about the last book you read for pleasure and what you gained from it. _____

How much time outside of class are you accustomed to spending on required homework assignments per week? _____

What do you consider to be acceptable reasons to fail to complete an assignment or to turn one in after it was due? _____

In the classic Fahrenheit 451, Ray Bradbury describes a world in which the government has banned all books and the country's fire departments seek out and burn any existing personal libraries. A small group of people dedicate their lives to memorizing books (Call of the Wild, for instance) and transmitting them to the next generation. If you lived in such a world and had to choose one book to memorize and pass on (other than the Scriptures, whose infinite worth is without question), what book would you choose? What universal truths does the book communicate that make it valuable for people in every time and place? _____

Give an example of someone who has exhibited good character and tell how he has demonstrated virtue. Feel free to use examples from history, from literature, or from personal experience. Why is such virtue important? _____

Do you personally desire to attend PCS? Yes _____ No _____ Please explain
