Master Teacher Development Program

The Association of Classical and Christian Schools (ACCS) has established a teacher certification program with three levels of certification: Provisional, Professional (ACCS-certified teacher), and Master. Though ACCS provides general guidelines, each member school determines the specific requirements for each level of certification. The Providence Master Teacher Development Program lists the specific steps PCS teachers must take to earn each level of ACCS certification. This program ensures that PCS teachers possess the knowledge of classical education and its main content areas, understand how to develop Christian virtues, and exemplify excellent teaching practices. We celebrate the following PCS faculty who have completed a new level of teaching certification this school year!
